LA FAVORITA for the Monterey Bicentennial is a native Carmel Valley beauty, Susie Carol Anne Lang. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lang of Rancho Don Juan. For Saturday's Merienda she wore this elegant ivory gown belonging to the Monterey History and Art Association, which had to be altered to fit her tiny 5 foot, 85-pound figure. Susie's small stature belies the fact she is an accomplished horsewoman and athlete who is on the swimming and field hockey teams at the University of New Mexico, where she is a junior majoring in physical education with a biology minor. She is also an ardent skier and mountain climber. Susie's background is steeped in California history, stretching back to a soldier settler, Don Francisco Lugo. Don Francisco's daughter, Maria Antonia, who was born in 1776, later married Iganacio Vallejo, and their 13 children all became well-known residents of the Monterey area. One daughter became the wife of Don Jose Amesti, another the wife of Jacob Leese and a third the wife of Capt. John B.R. Cooper. A son was the noted general Mariano Vallejo, and a grandson became Gov. Juan Bautista Alvarado.

What 'matters most' to Carmel High graduates?

"I'm trying to survive. I'm trying to find a job and that isn't easy, a job and a place to live. I'm not going to college next year, I'm going to take time off to assimilate all I've learned this year ... What matters? Personal creative development. I'm interested in taking a pottery course at college." RON RUSSELL, Charappal Road.

"I'm concerned about the American system. I've been doing research on prisons and court systems for my final paper in humanities. It's ugly, and nobody really cares. It's really a protective system we live ... you can't even visit a real prison ... the treatment of prisoners is bad, really bad. I passed out pamphlets about the prisons here and almost everybody turned away. Nobody cares. They have a nice easy life here, and when they get out, the real world is going to knock them over. They say all this isn't true, that it doesn't exist. That's something I'm really scared of - I wish people would react, even if they don't believe me. I don't mind being put down, if they just won't sit back and talk a little and do nothing." DENIS LONGFELLOW, Middle Canyon Road, going to MPC to study conservation and wildlife management.

"The thing I care about is to get students at home more involved in things. Students here are really involved and care, but in Danish schools, they aren't thinking about anything outside their academic work. I'm going to try to get students involved in pollution problems. We have the same problems but no one is doing anything. Of course I'm concerned about the war, too, and if I lived here, that would be the main thing. I'll try to open the eyes of people just like my eyes have been opened." RENE MADELAIRE, exchange student from Denmark.

BY PAT GRIFFITH

High school graduation is traditionally a time for self-evaluation and high anticipation. It is a time for taking stock and setting goals, for breaking the last ties with childhood and embarking on an independent course.

In trying to capture the mood both of what has been and what may be, the Outlook last week asked several graduating seniors at Carmel High School: "What matters to you now, at this point in your life? What do you really care about?"

The question was broad enough to encompass everything from immediate practical needs to a broad philosophical statement on life.

Aside from the interesting and varied individual answers, the poll as such produced one significant fact: no student was afraid to answer or to be quoted. They answered openly, thoughtfully, without fear or embarrassment.

If they carry this candor and concern with them in the years ahead, they, their classmates and their country will be well served.

about our society

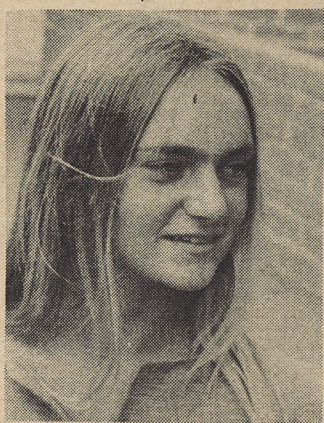

"What matters to me is getting a basis in practical courses for what I'm going to be doing. I want to get some land and a house and live as independently as I can. I want to learn now so I can be self-supporting later. I'd like to build my own house and do everything myself, and that's what I'd like to learn here first. I hope to go up north to Mendocino County where land is less expensive." JANN JASEAU, Berwick Drive, going to MPC in September.

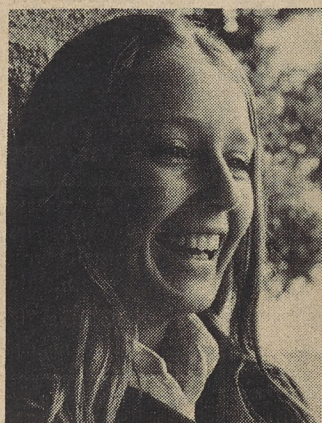

"Right now I care about world problems -- the war, population problems and pollution. I hope progress will be made immediately in finding solutions, instead of just going on talking about them. I don't know too much about Viet Nam, but what I know, I'm against. What else do I care about? Having a good time. I like to draw, play tennis, just enjoy the beauty around us." BEV SMITH, W. Carmel Valley Road, plans to attend art school.

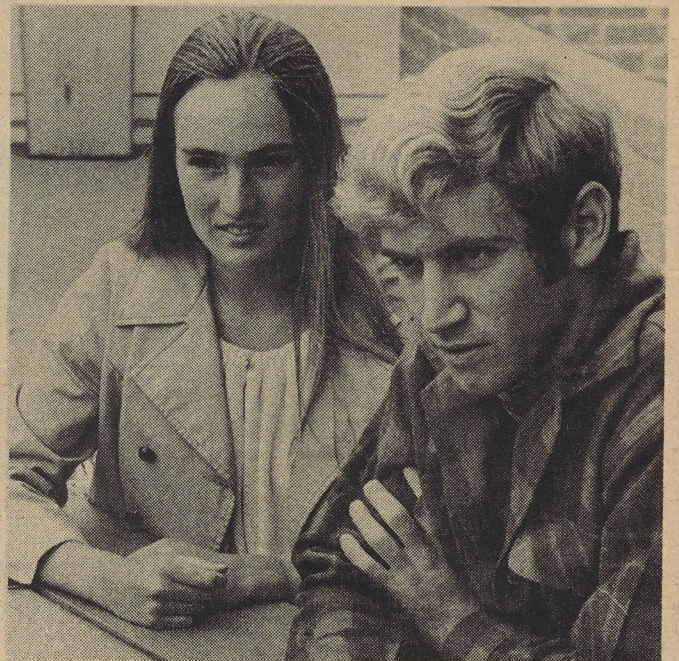

"What matters to me? People. Relating to them and understanding them. Just finding out what life is all about. Mostly people, people getting along with each other." MINDY RAYNE, La Rancheria, going to U.C. Santa Cruz in September, may possibly major in music.

"My main thing in the next few years is I really want to expand in creativity ... I'm working mostly for self-discipline, trying to gather myself together. In everything I do I find I try to develop self-discipline. I really have to get in myself before I can go out. I'm going to a small college on Maui where I'll have the opportunity to learn through experiencing different kinds of people, through the interactions of all these people. I feel I could be a force in that college, rather than just having it be a force on me. I really like to use my body as an expression of creativity, through dancing and yoga, singing and playing the guitar, through every medium I can be involved with." LINDY DOUD, Laurel Drive, going to Mauna Olu College on Maui, Hawaii.

"I'd like to find security, like finding a job I can count on. I want to meet people and get to know people and be friends with everybody. Mostly I just want to be happy in whatever I do. I'm really concerned about Vietnam but I'm kind of lost -- I hear different sides and I don't know what to believe. But maybe I'll find out and get involved later. It's really great to be out of school. It's a challenge to get out and face the world. It's going to be a lot more to do and lots more responsibility. I hope to travel when I find out what I want to do." DENISE DAVIES, Torres St., Carmel, going to MPC.

"I care about knowing my relationship to everything else. Once you know your relationship, you're in tune with it all. School is pretty important, but that's only a side part of everything else. I care about people, how we take care of nature. It's important that we be wise in the way we handle everything, because we're so powerful." LESA SMITH, Morse Drive, Carmel, going to U.C. Santa Cruz, will major in philosophy.

"I want to be involved. I'm extremely interested in what's happening politically in the country. Some of the things that are important to me are the A.C.L.U. and getting involved in things that matter such as ecology, the political system or chaos, the war and what's happening in the mid-East. What's important to me is that I go on and get a good education so that some day I can do something about it. I think if you don't like the system, you first become part of it and then refute it. Something else that's important to me is running. It doesn't have to be in competition, just running per se." GARY COHN, Monterey, going to U.C. Irvine for general humanities, social science course.

David Nystrom, valedictorian

CLASS VALEDICTORIAN David Nystrom has been student body treasurer and a member of the student council at Carmel High School. A varsity football and basketball player, he was selected "outstanding student" of the graduating class. He is a life member of the California Scholarship Federation and last week was awarded a Rotarian diamond pin for scholarship, a regional Elks Club scholarship, a Padre Parents Club scholarship, and a Bank of America citation as the outstanding lab science student.

Brink Harrison, salutatorian

SALUTATORIAN FOR 1970 will be Brink Harrison, who has served as student body treasurer, vice president of the junior class and president of the California Scholarship Federation. This past year he has been student representative on the Carmel Unified School District board of trustees. He received the Bank of America award in mathematics, the CSF seal bearer pin and a Rotarian diamond pin. He plans to attend Carleton College in Northfield, Minn., where he will major in either science, math or English.

Carmel High graduates speak their minds ...

Two boys with outstanding records in scholarship and school leadership will speak on a common theme—youthful dissent and responsibility—at tomorrow's Carmel High School graduation.

Valedictorian David Nystrom and salutatorian Brink Harrison have, in one sense, been part of the "establishment" in high school. Both have served as student body treasurer, and both have a string of scholastic and service honors long enough to dazzle any university dean of admissions.

Tomorrow, however, they are spokesmen for a concerned, articulate new breed of young adult, and they will be speaking both to the older establishment they have dealt with in school and in the Carmel community and to their fellow graduates.

Nystrom's address will be on "Protest in America." He plans to leave his audience with the message that "the kids who are protesting don't want to ruin the country, they just want to change it. They are doing things to get attention, and maybe these aren't the best methods, but they're the ones they have to use."

Nystrom, who tentatively plans to major in engineering at UCLA, explained last week that he is worried about the country on two counts—"either that we'll have an over-reaction that silences people, or else a small minority will get its way and the majority will be afraid to do what's right."

"I don't think anyone I know thinks the country is rotten and has to be destroyed," he added. "It's just they want to get out and work at it themselves. It's idealistic, but they've got a lot to give."

Although he isn't sure how he feels about the draft, he does believe everyone should serve the country in some way, perhaps through the Peace Corps or other agencies.

"I think everyone realizes Vietnam was a mistake and now we're just debating ways to get out faster. A lot of problems at home are caused by the war. The money spent in Vietnam could sure be used here."

"I don't particularly want to go, but if I have to, that won't really bother me either, and I will."

Harrison plans to talk about the "Unsilent Majority." His thesis will be that it is dangerous to let a so-called "silent majority" rule the country, and that everyone should form opinions and then speak up and be heard.

"This theme is very important to me, because I don't agree with the 'silent majority'," he explained.

Something else that matters to him is "being honest and frank with people, and helping other people." This ties in with his personal aspiration to become a college professor.

As far as Vietnam is concerned, Harrison has supported the moratorium movement and is prepared to apply for deferment as a conscientious objector if necessary.

"I want out," he said flatly. "If there is any way I can keep from going, I will."

Local YMCA camping for boys 6 to 9 in Carmel Valley

The YMCA is offering a beginning camp experience for 6 to 9 year old boys. Three different Y-Day Camp sessions are scheduled locally to begin June 22, July 13, and August 3. Each session will run 2 weeks, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day.

Special bus pick up and delivery service is being provided as far north as Marina and south to Carmel.

The Y-Day camp will be held in Carmel Valley and include swimming instruction, special educational trips, crafts, an overnight campout, and a special parents' campfire as a part of the comprehensive program.

Camp leadership consists of full-time professional YMCA directors with trained youth and young adult counselors.

Space is still available for all of the three sessions. Interested persons are encouraged to call the YMCA at 373-4166 for more information.

Persons wishing to help boys attend Y-Camp this summer can do so by purchasing cans of YMCA Butter Toffee peanuts being sold by boys earning their way to camp, or by contributing to the YMCA's Campership Fund.

Summer instrumental music program in Carmel schools

The Carmel School District will offer a six-week program of instrumental music classes beginning on June 22. Beginning, intermediate, and advanced classes will meet on Monday and Wednesday mornings at Tularcitos School and on Tuesday and Thursday mornings at River School. High school classes will be held Friday mornings at the high school.

Brass, woodwind, percussion and string (orchestral) classes will be offered. The district provides some of the larger instruments for the students at no cost.

A Tuesday night band is also being scheduled for junior and high school students. Adults may also participate in this band. This band will rehearse at the high school.

For further details and information call either Tularcitos School or River School or Henry Avila, music director at Carmel High School.

Local realtors to attend state meeting next week

Representing the Carmel Board of Realtors attending the annual meeting of committees and directors of the California Real Estate Association to be held at Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim June 18 through June 20 will be president M. A. "Skip" Marquard, vice-president Sally Conn, George Conn, L. R. Bemos and Charles W. McEwin, regional vice president of the Tenth District of the California Real Estate Association.

Legislation, political affairs, real estate education, the financial outlook in real estate and a variety of other subject will be discussed, Marquard explained.

Registration slated for youth swimming lessons

TWO GRANDMOTHERS-TO-BE, Mrs. Richard Simpson and Mrs. Joseph Gonzales, co-hosted a beautiful stork shower last week at the Simpson home on Dorris Drive honoring their daughter and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Andrew Gonzales of Monterey. The green and gold furnishings of the Simpson's recently redecorated home made a perfect setting for the party color scheme which utilized the honored guest's favorite color, yellow. Greeting the guests was a three-foot stork which pointed the way to an avocado green baby's bathinette and crib which were surrounded by many other beautifully wrapped gifts.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth with a border print of cunning yellow cherubs. Centering the table was a large white sheet cake decorated with yellow and green sweet peas and topped with a basinette. Punch bowls of champagne and Hawaiian fruit punch were banked with yellow sweet peas and white chrysanthemums. Guests enjoyed the olives, pickles artichokes, and dips all home-made by the hostess and the special fruit nut cake baked by the father-to-be's grandmother, Mrs. Andrew Salmeri of Monterey.

Prize for the oldest mother present went to the honoree's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Effie Simpson. Mrs. Simpson, 95 years young and representative of five generations had flown from her home in Prescott, Iowa. Many other games were enjoyed during the evening. Joe Gonzales and Jim Ferguson chauffeured the guests to and from the festivities.

Presents were opened by the lady-in-waiting from Mrs. Joe Salmeri, Mrs. Joe J. Salmeri, Mrs. Gene Woodford, Mrs. Mary Burldsci, Mrs. Frank Cefalu, Mrs. James Ferguson and Mrs. Gloria Tam, all of Monterey. Guests from Carmel Valley included Mrs. Barney Simpson, Mrs. Robert Wise, Mrs. Harvey Blackwelder, Mrs. Ivan Farrell and Miss Beth Blackwelder. From Carmel were Mrs. Eileen Hauger, Mrs. Joel Plumb, Mrs. Clorinda Smith, and Mrs. Les Howder were of Pacific Grove; Miss Marsha Moody, Miss Terry Gonzales, Mrs. Robert Loomis, Mrs. William Woodford, Mrs. James Selby, Mrs. Joe De Rousi, Mrs. George Menezes Sr., Mrs. Roy Parker and Mrs. George Menezes Jr. of Seaside; Mrs. Eugene Gonzales and Mrs. Robert Allen, Los Altos; Mrs. Kelton Reeves of Avenal, Mrs. John Avila of Sunnyvale, Mrs. Homer Stillwell and Mrs. Greg Downing of Gilroy, Mrs. Gerald Stillwell of San Jose, Mrs. George Skepanian of Alameda, and Mrs. Hank Tumbula of Antioch. Leaving the ladies to their time honored tradition of baby showers, the father-to-be, Andy Gonzales and the grandfather-to-be, Richard Simpson had an all-weekend fishing party at San Antonio Lake on what we understand was a very successful expedition!

THE NEW MANAGER at Quail Lodge, Larry Huddleson, was given an especially warm welcome by his sister, Joan, husband, Dick, and the Hindman children, Rick and Laurie who reside on Paso Hondo. The Huddleson's and their seven-month-old son, Mathew have previously lived in Carmel while Larry was the sales director for Del Monte Lodge and until recently have been San Jose residents. They plan to make their home in the Valley.

SHERRY MAY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James May of Panetta Road, was among the Saturday graduates at Chico State College. Guest speaker for the ceremony was Philip Berry, president of the Sierra Club. Sherry majored in Industrial Arts.

xxx

BRIDGE AND CANASTA PLAYERS please note: The June party scheduled for Mrs. Robert Von Pagenhardt's West Carmel valley Road home will be held on June 24, the FOURTH Wednesday of the month. It is true that there is a conflict of dates on the Valley's social calendar this month but this is their regular meeting date.

xxx

A PASO MEDIANO RESIDENT, Bud Platter, will wield the gavel as next year's president of the Tulareitos Parents Club. The president-elect and his wife, Jo Anne, are parents of three children, Kathy, Cynthia, and Stephen.

Other newly elected members of the board include Vic Harber, vice president, Mrs. Robert Slangerup, recording secretary, Mrs. Frank De Amaral Jr., corresponding secretary, and Mrs. John Anderson, treasurer.

xxx

A SPEEDY RECOVERY to Valley-ites who have been recently hospitalized: Mrs. Victor Harber of Lilac Lane, Mrs. Calvin Garner of West Carmel Valley Road and Laurel Drive, and Mrs. Angelo De Maria of Rippling River. Also on the recuperating list is Tulareitos student Jess Taylor who is confined to his Panetta Road home with severe burns.

xxx

WHEN SUMMER STOCK opens in Coeur d' Alene, Idaho, on the third of July one of the 22 members of the repertory troupe will be Ron Stark, who will be remembered by White Oaks Theater patrons from a few seasons back. Four great musicals, "Guys and Dolls", "Hello Dolly", "Man of LaMancha" and "Oliver" are being offered by the cast of talented people selected from all over the United States. Ron who has been attending San Francisco State opens in "Hello Dolly" and will perform until September 6.

MRS. CHRISTOPHER SPAULDING invited neighbors to a get-acquainted coffee honoring a new resident on Via Milpitas, Mrs. Dorothy Boycott. Mr. and Mrs. Dudley J. Boycott are from Morristown, New Jersey, and have purchased the Charles Bowers home on Via Milpitas. They chose the Valley to be near their daughter and husband, Dr. and Mrs. Walt Patton of Tierra Grande. Enjoying the morning party were Mrs. Peter Erickson, Mrs. Robert Ewing, Mrs. William Arnold, Mrs. Luther Washington, Mrs. Daniel Mayers and Mrs. David Allard.

The Spauldings and their small son, Timothy, have just returned from a six day holiday at Balboa where they were guests at the beach house owned by Valerie's family. Both of the Valley-ites are from the Santa Monica area so it gave them an ideal location for a wonderful reunion with family and many of their old friends.

A MINIATURE GOLD Girl Scout pin will undoubtedly have a special place among the keepsakes of Mrs. Lloyd Swanson who received it last week at a Thank You Tea given in her honor by members of Brownie Troop 2028. Leaders, Mrs. Richard King and Mrs. Jon Storm, added their thanks with the presentation of a picture of the troop and a card for Jeanette's interest and assistance in making many of their ventures the success that they were. Coffee, punch and a cake topped with Brownie figurines and Girl Scout insignia were enjoyed by the members and guests.

xxx

xxx

THOSE SUPER SALESMEN of Carmel Valley, the Cub Scouts of Pack 76, were rewarded on Sunday for their efforts in the recent fund drive. The boys had sold enough fire extinguishers, safety flares, America the beautiful place mats and note paper to pay for an excursion to Frontier Village and Marine World. The boys boarded a bus early in the morning at the Community Center and had a full day of entertainment. Accompanying the group were cub master, Don Draper, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Mink, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Anderson, Mrs. Richard Bliss, Mrs. Margaret Willman and Mrs. Mildred Hattan. Boys and their guests included Jeff Mink, Charles Harlander, David McKenzie, Jeff Hogans, Peter Shepard, James Willman, Jill Mink, Steve Allard, Rodney Anderson, Rogan Hattan, Katie Bliss, Jeff Glasco, Barry Rudolph, Jenny Mink, Shane Hattan, Sean George, Chris Anderson, Jenny Mink, Scarlett Hattan, Carl Bresk, Steve Draper, Susie Bliss, Rod Eldridge, Jay Jones, Roy Kaminske, Garth Hattan, Don Berta, Joe Wallace, Tim Sherman, Danny Bussinger, Chris Jones, Gary Eldridge, Heidi Hattan, Andrew Lockwood and Gary Condren "an old oak leaf cluster to 'Gordon, the bus driver'!" and to the Valley residents who purchased items from the Pack.

Hood proposes to extend Carmel Valley Airstrip by 700 feet

A proposal to extend the runway at the Carmel Valley Airstrip from 1,800 feet to 2,500 feet is now being reviewed by the Federal Aviation Administration.

Al Hood, operator of Carmel Valley Aviation, has made application to the FAA for the proposed alteration, which includes seal-coating and extending the existing 50 foot by 1,800 runway to the northwest by an additional 700 feet.

In a notice to the public, the FAA remarked that the alignment of the runway will remain the same, that the airstrip will be open for public use when alteration is completed and that no practice or touch-and-go landings would be permitted.

Hood indicated to the FAA that he estimates 50-75 based aircraft within 5 years with an average 1,600 landings a month. No instrument flight rules operations are anticipated.

The FAA also stated: "Interested persons may participate in this proposal by submitting such comments, views or arguments as they may desire, in writing, to the Chief, Air Traffic Branch, Federal Aviation Administration, 831 Mitten Road, Burlingame, Calif. 94010. All written communications received within 30 days after the issuance (May 20) of this notice will be considered before action is taken on the proposal. Please refer to the case number (70-SFO-15-NR) when replying."

A LITTLE GIRL with a big accordion who performed for the Tularcitos Parents Club program was Anna Putsy, who lives in Cachagua Valley.

NOBODY NEEDED TO ASK Jody Mink whether or not she enjoyed the music.

TEAMED for close harmony were sixth graders Margaret Yrigollen and Betsy Clark.

JOINING FOR A DUET were Lee Boehme and Sydney Read, both sixth graders at Tularcitos School.

Community Chapel Guild social club to meet next Wednesday

The next meeting of the social club sponsored by the Carmel Valley Community Chapel Guild will be held on June 17 in Fellowship Hall on Village Drive. The hostesses will be Mrs. James Fitch, Mrs. Thomas B. McKiernon, and Mrs. Margaret Burkholder. Dessert is served at 12:30 preceding bridge and canasta. Newcomers and visitors are always welcome at the meetings of this group. Those wishing to play bridge are asked to make reservations by calling Mrs. Fitch, 659-4207; for canasta, please call Mrs. Vera Stokes, 659-4286.

THE TOWN CRIER

THE CARMEL UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT will present its tentative 1970-71 budget for adoption at tonight's meeting of the board of education. A report on the district's new bus garage and a report by social studies students and teachers from Carmel High School are also on the agenda. The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. in Brey Hall at the high school.

EIGHT PROPERTY OWNERS opposed to expansion of the Carmel Valley Fire Protection District met at All Saints' School last week to plan strategy for future public hearings. The group, headed by Beverly Stover, a member of the Lower Valley Advisory Committee and a long-time Valley resident, agreed to ask attorney Laurence P. Horan to represent them in the future. They are opposed to annexation of mid and lower Carmel Valley to the fire district because it will mean an increase in property taxes, and feel they have adequate protection from the State Forestry station on Carmel Hill.

THE CASE OF who knocked down all those mailboxes in Robles del Rio has been turned over to postal inspectors for further investigation. This makes it a federal case with potentially more serious consequences for the offenders. Monterey County Sheriff's Deputies had questioned several possible suspects in the case, but all produced alibis or were released for lack of sufficient evidence. Anyone with further information should contact postal inspector P.R. Hirsch in Salinas, 424-9661.

The humanities class at Carmel High School has presented two reproductions of works by Jack Swanson to the Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club in memory of its late president, Robert Angell. Class representatives Lesa Smith and Gary Cohn made the presentation to Mrs. Robert Angell following the first award series of the year on May 20. Mr. Angell started the award series several years ago for youth groups and members of the Trail and Saddle Club.

In accepting the pictures, Mrs. Angell replied that "a higher tribute cannot be made, than one from the young people of our community."

Photographs by Jim Ziegler of Carmel Valley are on exhibit at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History through June 30. Ziegler is an outdoorsman with a keen interest in the beauty of the Santa Lucia Mountains and Carmel Valley. He is also a horseman, and his love of riding is reflected in photographs of cattle drives, roping and branding. His photographic display is on view from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily except Mondays at the museum, located at the corner of Forest and Central Avenues in Pacific Grove.

'Anything Goes' next at Circle

Opening the Summer Season of the Community Theatre of the Monterey Peninsula June 24th will be Cole Porter's typical '30's musical "Anything Goes", to be followed by "Wonderful Town", with music by Leonard Bernstein, opening July 10th. The shows will then play alternate weeks Wednesday through Sunday at 8:30 p.m. through August 30th.

Reservations may be made at The Circle Theatre, Casanova between 8th and 9th (P.O.Box A L), Carmel-by-the-Sea, or telephone 624-2669.

Girard Aken students to exhibit work

Girard Aken, Carmel artist who teaches oil painting at both Carmel Sunset Center and Carmel Valley Manor, will exhibit the works of his students at the Carmel Valley Manor. A preview is being held from 5-6 p.m. Wednesday of this week. The show will be open to the public from June 11-July 6.

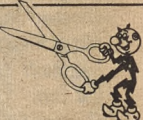

A six week summer course in oil painting for beginners and advanced students will be held at both places under the direction of Mr. Aken for the Carmel Adult Educational system.

Those wishing to sign up, can telephone the Carmel Adult Education office at 624-3342 or the Girard Seascape Gallery in Carmel at 624-5139.

Classes will begin June 24 to July 29 inclusive.

More Helpful Tips from PG&E:

"Clip and Save"

Every girl should know how to re-fuse.

If you should find yourself powerless, and your neighbors are too, it's probably a local power equipment failure. Call us and we'll restore service. If the power is off in your house only, it's probably a blown fuse or an open circuit breaker. You may have too many appliances on one circuit or outlet. Unplug a few. Or it could be a short-circuit, so check for damaged cords and loose plugs.

If your lights are still off, check your main switch. If it is the fuse type, the switch should be turned "off" before you replace a fuse. Replace any fuse that has a smoked-up window or melted metal strip. (Make sure new fuse is the same amperage as the old one—no more, no less.) If you have circuit breakers, follow the instructions on the panel.

Many homes have both fuses and circuit breakers. If your electricity is off for any period, don't open your refrigerator or freezer, so frozen foods will stay frozen longer. If the food starts to thaw, add dry ice.

Still in the dark? Call us. P.S. The average daily cost of gas and electricity to run a typical household year 'round is less than a couple of packs of cigarettes.

PG and E

From San Jose State College comes word that JoAnn Miller of Carmel Valley received a BA degree in art ceremonies held June 5.

THERE'S GOOD NEWS to report about Dr. David Morris. The popular physician has fully recuperated from his recent surgery and has resumed normal office hours on Pilot Road. Dr. Morris was stricken with a bleeding ulcer while on a vacation visit to Athens two months ago and underwent surgery after returning home.

Mrs. Virginia McPherson

heads Carmel Woman's Club

Mrs. Virginia McPherson was elected president of the Carmel Woman's Club at its Annual Meeting in the Clubhouse on June 1st.

Also elected to office were the following:

Mrs. Frank C. Galland, First Vice-President and Program Chm.; Mrs. Viola Mills, Second Vice-President and Membership Chm.; Miss Marion Stevens, Recording Secretary; Mrs. I. Norman Downer, Treasurer; Miss Helen Miner, Corresponding Secretary; Miss Marion Eley, Budget Chairman; Mrs. J.R. Lynas, Publicity Chairman; Mrs. M.P. Mack, House Chairman; Mrs. Wilhelmina Klein, Hospitality Chairman; Mrs. John T. Bissell, Chairman of Flower Arrangements; Mrs. John M. Menczkowski, Card Chairman; Mrs. Charles U. Fontenau, Liberal Arts Chairman; Mrs. Stuart S. Goode and Mrs. E.M. Porter, Travel and Garden Chairmen.

Mrs. Lewis Hulse and Mrs. Wallace H. Lowry were also named to serve on the next nominating committee.

The report for the above slate of officers was given by Mrs. Eugene Ingalls, chairman of the nominating committee; she was assisted by Miss Marion Eley, Mrs. Fred L. Farley, Mrs. Wallace H. Lowry and Mrs. Ernest J. Mulrooney.

Mrs. Myron Hayward is retiring president of the Club.

Annual reports of the retiring officers and election of new officers followed a buffet lunch.

"THANK YOU!" That's the word from Joan Morris, Chairman, as Membership Committee meets. Steve Thigpen, standing, is Treasurer and Director of the CVPOA. George Sackman, at right, is also on the Board of Directors. All are participating actively in the 1970 Membership Drive which was spearheaded by handwritten letters asking residents to help the CVPOA "preserve and protect the natural beauty of Carmel Valley".

For First Time in History of CVPOA

MEMBERSHIP LIST PUBLISHED

The CVPOA has maintained a record of members since it was founded. As the Valley grew, so grew the membership. In recent years it has become impossible for the limited volunteer staff to thank each member individually. Therefore, in appreciation of the hundreds of contributions received in the form of Association dues, the entire list of active and associate members is being published for the first time.

This list appears on page C of this CVPOA supplement.

During 1970 some members demonstrated exceptional appreciation of the work of the CVPOA by sending generous donations over and above the amount of the dues.

"Without membership support," said Steve Thigpen, "there would be no CVPOA. And without CVPOA, who would represent the interests of the Valley in the Salinas courthouse? That is where the rules are made. And that is where numbers count. The more members we represent, the stronger we are as a persuasive force at the decision level in Salinas."

Will all the hills of Carmel Valley be gashed, scarred, scalped bald?

Ed Lee, president of CVPOA, urges joint community action to prevent destructive land use.

Will the hills of Carmel Valley be green, unscarred and beautiful twenty years from now? Will the river banks be verdant, lush with willows, alders and cottonwoods - with children swimming, fishing or riding ponies along a tranquil stream?

Or will great gashes by the County Road Department and by private developers mark so-called "progress" toward overdeveloped residential areas? Will the river banks be barren, the stream bed dry, the underground waters depleted, the winter rains stored, wastefully used and flushed to sea?

These alternatives are at the heart of the two major issues facing the residents of Carmel Valley today. Both issues -- the re-zoning of the hills above the Valley floor and a plan to use the Carmel River waters in a way most consistent with preservation of the river, its banks and the valleys through which it flows -- will be acted upon by the Board of Supervisors or other legislative or administrative bodies within the next year.

The Board of Directors of the CVPOA will continue to develop significant facts relating to these issues. It will continue to make recommendations consistent with these facts.

But it is not enough that this thirteen-member Board act on these issues. Every resident should become informed and involved in the decision process. The issues which will determine the future of the Valley are too important to be left to the decisions and recommendations of a few whether they be members of the County government, realtors, developers, a public utility or the Board of the CVPOA.

The major public forum for open discussion of these issues is the monthly meeting of the CVPOA Board of Directors. I urge you to attend these meetings, to speak up, to express your opinion; and to write your supervisor. If you disagree with positions taken by the Board it is even more important that you appear at the meetings and offer constructive alternatives.

Storage Dams and Conservation of the Carmel River

Ed Lee reports that the California-American Water Company is committed to the selection of a site and construction of a dam to provide the water needed now and in the early future by the Monterey Peninsula.

The Quarterly Meeting of the CVPOA on May 7 was devoted to a discussion of the problems of exploiting and conserving Carmel River waters. The meeting was attended by 176 persons. No final decisions were made. Public hearings are planned after recommendations of the Water Company are available.

VALLEY RESIDENTS PENALIZED?

George Lockwood adds his comments:

"The construction of a dam," he says, "will reduce the flow of the River to a point where it will be dry most of the year except during flood season, with subsequent loss of vegetation followed by increased pollution."

"Loss of vegetation will result in more erosion during flood periods unless the River is 'managed'. This means lining the river bed with concrete. Again, increased pollution will result since the river will not have enough flow to dilute the increasing sewage load and to flush it clean."

Mr. Lockwood goes on to say that, in his opinion, these consequences will represent substantial costs to Carmel Valley property owners. "These costs are being imposed upon us mainly to provide water for the rest of the Monterey Peninsula. Our county and state governments should weigh these costs as precisely as they weigh direct financial costs when comparing the desirability of a Carmel River Dam with other sources."

HILLSIDE DEVELOPMENT CONTROL

By GEORGE LOCKWOOD
Vice President, CVPOA

The projected population growth for the next ten years for the Monterey Peninsula is substantial. Carmel Valley will probably be sought for a large portion of this growth, resulting in increased pressure for hillside development. Such development, if not controlled, could infringe upon the property rights and welfare of established property owners who have an investment of approximately $100,000,000 in homes and developed and improved land at the lower elevations in Carmel Valley.

When considering property rights, aesthetic considerations are important. A basic underlying value in all Carmel Valley property is its natural beauty. Few people - certainly not responsible developers, landowners and their engineers - look forward with pleasure to seeing the Carmel Valley hills chopped up with massive building pads, road and driveway cuts and fills slicing across the steep slopes, and a rash of stilted cantilevered houses.

In addition to aesthetic damages, improper hillside development and road construction can result in major physical damages to neighbors below. Increased storm runoff, soil erosion and soil transport to lower elevations, landslides and fire hazards are types of increased physical hazards. For example, developing a typical one acre hillside lot results in twice the storm water runoff; roof shingles and asphalt do not absorb so much rainwater as natural ground-cover. Existing high density hillside subdivisions in Carmel Valley experienced many cases of increased flooding, soil erosion and transport, and landslides during the 1969 winter storms.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL

Another critical problem associated with high density hillside development is sewage disposal. In Carmel Valley, our hillside subdivisions present several unique sewage problems not faced on the valley floor. The soils on the upper slopes are less pervious, and this factor, when coupled with a much thinner ground cover, results in unfiltered sewage running through our streets and ditches during the rainy season. We have several cases of this now in existing hillside subdivisions.

In a recently completed engineering study of Carmel Valley sponsored by Monterey County, the unique problem of hillside sewage disposal was clearly described. In addition, this report recommended that septic tank systems be prohibited for lots less than 2½ acres.

In view of the expected hillside development pressures and the problems that could result, the CVPOA has urged that legislation be enacted that would exert reasonable control over hillside development so that existing property rights are protected from potential aesthetic, physical and health damages.

H-C REPORT

At the March 24 meeting of the County Board of Supervisors the H-C amendment and CVPOA - sponsored revisions were rejected.

Opposition was led by Myron T. Etienne, a Salinas attorney, and Milton "Skip" Marquard of Porter-Marquard Real Estate. Opponents included developers, the Farm Bureau, and a few owners of undeveloped property in Carmel Valley and elsewhere. Their combined opposition persuaded the Board of Supervisors to reverse its previous affirmative vote on the proposed amendment and the three suggested improvements. The amendment has been referred to all Monterey County Advisory Boards for comment.

The CVPOA will continue to seek and support a re-zoning of the higher elevations in Carmel Valley that would be consistent with the conservation goals of the Master Plan.

Speaking of...

Lying Down ... It was during a Board of Directors meeting that one woman (me) said: if necessary to achieve their purpose, women would "lie down on the airstrip".

The next lying-down resolution came from Joan Morris who said she'd "lie down on the road" to prevent boats being towed to any recreational lakes in upper Valley.

Then Ed Lee entered the act. When fears were expressed about proposed Cachagua dam, he turned to me with a smile and said, "If that happens, we can all lie down in the River."

Airstrip ... The day the jets fly in is the day the birds fly out - and Carmel Valley enters its suburban era. At present the word is No Jets. But the future?

Ideas ... The first thing to do when you get an idea is to find someone else to do the work. That's the gist of Ed Lee's comment when you pop up with suggestions like --

Tours ... We have Adobe Tours. House Tours. Garden Tours. Why not a CVPOA Pollution Tour? A Valley tour to show its beauty and its destruction. A personal eye-witness view of butchering, spillage, pollution. The Planning Commission and Board of Supervisors could be honored guests. "Good idea," says Ed Lee. "You be chairman." Meaning: you do the work.

Ed DeMars ... The CVPOA congratulates him upon receiving Resolution in his honor from California Highway Commission for pioneering the State's scenic highway program.

Voting ... In H-C hearing March 24: out of a possible 4 votes, Mr. Branson gave CVPOA recommendations 1. Chairman Smith gave us 2. The other Supervisors: none. This after unanimous Ayes in the February 3 meeting -- same subjects, same Supervisors.

Next H-C Meeting ... Originally scheduled for June 23 it has been postponed to September 1. Now that's what I call a generation gap.

IS INCORPORATION THE ANSWER?

BY FRANK BRESK

Is incorporation the answer to the problem of providing Carmel Valley residents with a stronger voice in hillside zoning matters? Certainly if our county government were responsive to Carmel Valley needs, incorporation would not again be under consideration.

Incorporation would establish local control of various governmental functions such as planning, zoning, police and fire protection. It would require the election of a local city council and the hiring of administrators to provide services now provided by the county. The extent of these services would determine revenue requirements. Basic sources of revenue would be state subventions (from motor vehicle taxes and gasoline taxes) and municipal use taxes (sales tax, cigarette tax, building permits, etc.).

Would our taxes increase with incorporation? There is no exact answer to this question since it is influenced so much by the services required by the residents of Carmel Valley. But would not a nominal tax increase be preferable to the destruction of this Valley? The answer to this question will be strongly influenced by the outcome of the September Board of Supervisors hearing on revisions to the proposed hillside conservation ordinance.

TREASURER'S REPORT

Stephen Thigpen, Treasurer, reported on the financial condition of the CVPOA at the May 7 Quarterly Meeting. As of that date funds totaled $2266.82 including cash and checking account amounts. Of this total $1989.21 was in a CVPOA savings account.

"We receive our financial support entirely from members in form of annual dues and some unsolicited donations", says Steve. "Our expenditures are nominal. During the first quarter major outlays have been in such areas as costs for presentations to Supervisors, membership mailing, office and stationery supplies, and postage."

MANY LEADING SHOPS AND SERVICES ON LIST

Local business interests are well represented on the 1970 membership list. "Shop Valley", suggests the CVPOA to help your neighbors.

Inspiration for the Membership Seal

On February 3, 1970 in the Salinas Courthouse Edwin Lee, president of CVPOA, concluded the group's dramatic presentation with this story.

I remember when I was a high school senior in the mountains of western Montana. Dean Klemme of Carleton College came from the midwest to address us and, in an effort to inspire us to make the best use of our education, told us this story:

"There lived once, in the Ozark Mountains, an old man who was reputed to be very wise and it was said by some that he could even foretell the future. A young man scoffed at these beliefs and resolved to discredit the old man and show him to be a fool. So he caught a small bird and set out to visit the old man. His plan was to show the old man the bird and ask him if it were alive or dead. If the old man said it was alive he would crush the bird in his hands and if the old man said it was dead he would open his hands so the bird would fly away. When he arrived he went up to the old man, held out his hands with the bird's head peeking out, and said, "Old man, what do I have in my hands?" The old man said, "You hold a bird, my son."

"Is it alive or is it dead?"

And the old man replied, "As you will my son."

Like the bird in the story, the beauty of Carmel Valley is fragile. It can so easily be destroyed. As a symbol, we have chosen a quail who strides forward with head high, perky in his belief that he lives in the best of all possible Valleys. Will he always? The future of the Valley is up to you, the people, and your government. "As you will."

Copies of the new Seal will be included in a future mailing to members.

Q and A re CVPOA

Q. What is the CVPOA?

It is a body of conservationists: people who have united in order to provide a visible means of protest against exploitation of Carmel Valley's inherent land and water resources, with resultant pollution of the land, of the air, of the water.

Q. Does it have legal power?

No; only the power of public opinion.

Q. When was it founded?

In 1949 - long before the word "ecology" became a political by-word - a few dedicated persons led by a woman, Orre Haselfine, sought to protect the Valley environment. They founded the CVPOA.

Q. When was it incorporated?

In 1958.

Q. What is the Master Plan?

It is a community development plan that outlines in detailed terms future land use: highways, parks, population projections, school sites, commercial areas and residential developments.

Q. How did the Master Plan originate?

In 1954 the CVPOA engaged consultants to collaborate in its preparation. It was adopted by the Board of Supervisors in 1961. Carmel Valley was the first unincorporated area in the United States to develop and adopt a Master Plan.

Q. How can I get a copy of the Master Plan?

Write CVPOA requesting it; or ask for a copy at a CVPOA meeting.

Q. Do you have to be a property owner to be a member of the CVPOA?

No. Most members are property owners. These, called Active Members, have right to vote and hold office. Non-property owners, called Associate Members, can participate and exert influence but are ineligible to hold office or vote.

Q. What are the dues?

$2 per year per person.

Q. Do I have to attend meetings if I join?

No. But it is in your own self-interest to attend.

Q. Are the meetings open to the public?

Yes. The CVPOA provides the only regularly scheduled public forum in the Valley for discussion of environmental problems.

Q. When and where are meetings held?

The first Thursday of every month at the Community Center on Ford Road in Carmel Valley, at 8:00 p.m.

Recent Letters to CVPOA

May 25, 1970

I recently bought some property in Carmel Valley and would like to join your association, particularly if the majority of the members feel the way I do about things. I am against widening the Carmel Valley road to four lanes, in favor of 2½ acre limit per house, and in general in favor of keeping the valley rural instead of a subdivision type area. I read Mr. Marquard's article in the Outlook recently where he favors the "right to develop land under reasonable controls".

I realize people have bought land for speculation in the hopes of making money by having the area really built up, but hope the majority do not feel that way. I paid a high price for my land, but not for speculation, but to be able to have some open land and live in an area where there is open land. I am also in favor of having a hiking or biking trail running through the valley, so that people could enjoy the land on their two legs instead of from an automobile seat.

Yours truly,
RUTH E. BENTON
Berkeley, California 94704

(Ed. Note: And thank you for your generous contribution over and above the dues!)

April 17, 1970

I don't know whether I have paid my 1970 dues or not. I'm including a $10 donation in appreciation of the splendid work of the Association. If I have already paid my dues, just keep the whole amount (small as it is) as a contribution.

Sincerely,
LOUISE H. ZOOK

(Ed. Note: Yes, you had paid. We thank you twice!)

sunrise..... to Sunset dorothy bowman .

Our "Artists in Action" program last Saturday was its usual success. Let me briefly mention a few of the many fascinating exhibits.

Carmel Graphics was its usual lively spot with activities ranging from etching to serigraphy. Folkdancers kept the patio really stepping, and folksing with guitar and flute accompaniment gave the artists an inspirational background for their creative endeavors. "Punch & Judy" proved to be a favorite for the kids. Step-by-step demonstrations of beginning painting, as well as demonstrations in portrait painting, cartooning, stitchery, and pottery, were given throughout the afternoon.

Our day was climaxed by our talented youngsters of the Children's Experimental Theater. Their performance was an exciting addition to "Artists in Action". Whether on the Sunset stage or at the Forest Theater, the children are proving to be veteran troupers.

So much for last Saturday. (If you missed it, I hope you'll make the next "Artists in Action" on July 4). Now let's take a look at what's coming up at the Center.

Dr. Greenberg will present one more Saturday afternoon Record Hour on June 20 before our Bach Festival musicians begin to arrive for rehearsal. Soon every nook and cranny at Sunset will be bursting with music. Individual tickets are still available in Studio 3.

George and Inger Wallace will present their non-tourist view of Mexico on Friday evening, June 19. This program promises to be not only a rewarding educational experience, but a truly new approach to gaining cultural insight into the great traditions and colorful history of our Mexican neighbors.

Mr. Wallace first began his professional career in photography with Ansel Adams and Minor White at the California School of Fine Arts in San Francisco. He later became a professor of photography at San Jose State College. In 1961, he and his family made their first trip to Mexico, and since then they have covered more than 40,000 miles of the country. I feel that what George and Inger have learned about the rural life in Mexico will be of great interest to those who attend their presentation. Tickets may be reserved at Abinante's, or at the Sunset Center Box Office on the evening of the performance.

I am looking for volunteers in the community who have slides or movies of their travels that they would be willing to show in a new "Fun with Films" series at the Center. If you are interested in giving such a presentation, or if you would like any other information about our activities at Sunset, please call me at 624-3996.

Final performances this weekend of '3 Bags Full'

Final performances of the Community Theatre's successful run of "Three Bags Full" will be held this coming Friday and Saturday evenings, at the Circle Theatre, Casanova between 8th & 9th, at 8:30 p.m.

This will mark the ninth week of the uproarious farce comedy by Jerome Chodorov, delineating the zany complications in a turn-of-the-century household when mistaken identity and switching of luggage occurs.

Directed by Michael Keller, the cast includes Bill Schofield, Joyce Malikoff, Layne Littlepage, Roy Baxter, Jean McBride, Bob Lotz, John Doolittle, John Sullivan and Florence Larsen.

Last week we discussed a few aspects of summer care for dogs among them proper grooming, flea and tick control and availability of water. We feel that "summerizing" your dog deserves special attention, because thousands of dogs suffer terribly during the hot months, and additional thousands die needless deaths because of their owners' unawareness of their pets' special needs during the 'Dog Days.'

We are not exaggerating when we say that thousands of dogs die—they do, and they do so as a tragic ending to what began as a happy car ride with a family member. They die of suffocation and heat prostration in cars that become like ovens under the rays of the summer sun.

The dog is unique in his ability—or lack of ability—to cool his body. Unlike most animals, including man, he lacks sweat glands on his body. Most of the dog's natural heat-regulating process is carried out by moisture evaporation through his breath and tongue. When an overheated dog pants, you can actually see droplets of water fall from his tongue. Beyond this rather inefficient medium, he does comparatively little evaporative cooling on the other areas of his body. Because of this shortcoming, he is especially prone to heat prostration.

In a situation where humans or horses or cattle would be perspiring from every one of millions of separate pore openings all over the body, the dog can only pant mightily, and too often the panting is not rapid enough to do the job. Heat stroke follows.

The number one cause of heat stroke is being left in a parked car in hot summer weather. You have all heard warnings about dognappers; therefore, you probably lock the car in which your dog remains. However, you have probably heard equally strong admonitions about leaving the window open an inch or so to provide air for the dog. But a steel-bodied automobile parked in an air temperature of 85 degrees, in direct sun, can easily build up an internal temperature of over 100 degrees. An hour or two in such a parked car will raise the car's inside temperature past the point of tolerance—to say 110 or 112 degrees—and sad shoppers and tourists return to find their dog either prostrate from the heat or dead.

Prevention is simple. Either leave your dog coolly at home in very hot weather when you know he will be forced to wait in the car, or be absolutely certain to park in shade and leave adequate ventilation. Remember that shade at 10:00 a.m. is probably not going to be shade at noon. You may have to move the car or park in a completely shaded spot. You can, of course, take the dog with you whenever possible. Sometimes it is better to hitch his leash to an outdoor spot for a few minutes than to leave him in the car. Certainly, anything is better than causing suffering or death to your beloved pet.

Should you be in the unhappy position of finding your dog prostrate, there are simple, immediate and effective measures one can take. Since the dog, who will be collapsed, breathing heavily, panting and drooling, is suffering from too much heat, the reverse is the treatment. He should be immersed in cold water as quickly as possible. You can pour quantities of cold water over him while someone else is filling a tub in which to immerse the dog. He can be dipped in the ocean or river—anything cold and wet. A fan can be turned on him while the cold water treatment is continued. Only his head should be kept out of the water.

The dog's body will feel hot while he is prostrate. When he begins to feel cool to the touch, you can stop the cold water treatment and let him rest quietly. In the meantime, it's a good idea to check with a vet and apprise him of the situation. He may prescribe medication and he will certainly recommend further care for the dog.

If unchecked, heat prostration will kill your pet. And do not think it happens only to dogs in parked cars. It happens to dogs who are chained out in the direct sun; to dogs romping too strenuously in hot weather; to dogs forced to exert themselves beyond what their normal innate sense urges. Most dogs know when they're hot and tired and ready to quit. Their masters are the ones who urge them on with the game of ball, or galloping beside a bicycle or horse past the point where the dog would, of his own volition, fall into a shady patch of grass and rest.

It is good practice not to exercise your pet in hot midday summer weather. If you usually take him out to run during those hours, you should alter your schedule so that he can exercise in early morning or evening hours, before the sun reaches its peak or after it sets. Also, the dog's food and feeding time may have to be adjusted to summertime weather.

Many dogs "go off their feed" during the really hot days. Nature is telling them to do this; humans don't want a steak-and-potatoes meal when the thermometer is above 90. Your dog will appreciate being fed in the cooler hours, and he will appreciate a lighter diet as well. You can cut down on the quantities of carbohydrates (meal or kibble) and increase light but nourishing foods such as eggs and cottage cheese. And, above all, be absolutely certain that the dog has all the cool, clean water he can want at all times.

One of the worst things you can do is give a dog a drink when he's hot and tired. Cold water under those circumstances acts as a shock to his system. If water is always available, the dog will drink whenever he chooses and won't have to gulp down too much water at one time.

A few safeguards and a little common sense will do much to ensure that your dog's summer is as enjoyable as your own. He will want to share as many of your activities as possible, including your vacation, and there's no reason he shouldn't.

Visitors get better signs directing them to Valley

Highway signs guiding visitors to Carmel Valley were among the important subjects discussed at the Chamber of Commerce meeting last Thursday, held at the Plaza Linda Restaurant.

Skip Marquard said that a sign would be put up on Laureles Grade just north of the Miramonte detour turn-off.

It reads: "Carmel Valley Resort area straight ahead." Present signing is confusing to visitors, since it directs only that traffic headed to Carmel. The sign at the foot of Laureles Grade, where it intersects with Carmel Valley Road, has been down for several months, did indicate which way to turn to the Village area.

Signs at the mouth of the Valley on Carmel Valley Road are also in need of attention. The question was also raised as to whether they are properly located.

At any rate, an effort will be made to renovate them. One, just west of the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, advises visitors that they are entering Carmel Valley. Then a few hundred feet further east another one says: Carmel Valley 12 miles.

President Chuck Strathmeyer said that the membership in the chamber now exceeds 90—considerably more than last year. A new directory is now being printed listing all members by categories. It will be given widespread distribution.

Bob Kvenild said that the Village Committee needed financial help to continue with its beautification maintenance program. The chamber directors voted to allocate the $180 available for this purpose to the three business areas on the basis of membership percentage. The Village area will get around 70 per cent of the amount, since most chamber members are from that area.

Cypress swimmers win high honors at Junior Olympics

Four Cypress Swim Club members won ribbons in solo and duet competition and third-place bronze medals in team competition at the 1970 Pacific AAU Jr. Olympic Synchronized Swimming Championships held last weekend at Castro Valley.

The third-place win entitles the young team of Kathryn Blevens, Gerri Brandly, Debbie Jameson and Stacy Larsen to enter the Region XIII National AAU Jr. Olympic Qualifying Meet to be held at Tustin, Calif., June 27.

First place in the team event went to the Santa Clara Aquamats and second to San Francisco Merionettes. Cypress narrowly edged out their nearest rivals, the San Jose Rhythmettes and the Flying Fins of Hayward by less than half a point to win the third place and the chance to go on to Regional AAU competition.

In solo competition, Cypress entry Stacy Larsen won sixth in the 10-and-under age group, and Debbie Jameson placed 14th in the 11-12 division. In 11-12 duets, Kathryn Blevens and Gerri Brandly paired to win the fifth-place ribbons.

In the first phase, the figures competition with most of the Cypress membership entered, local placements and scores were as follows: 10-and-under (10) Stacy Larsen, 13.840; (39) Judy Wright, 11.200; 11-12 (5) Gerri Brandly, 20.710; (23) Kathryn Blevens, 18.370; (39) Debbie Jameson, 15.620; (49) Cathy Rahe, 15.150; (55) Suzanne Calley, 13.955; (70) Julie Lipman, 11.130; 13-14 (68) Sherri Mullen, 17.460; (77) Kathy Clark, 16.200; (84) Vicki Shaw, 14.645; 15-16 (57) Teri Rahe, 20.050; (60) Helen Hulanicki, 16.380.

New C.R.T.A. officers to be installed next Wednesday

The Monterey County division of the California Retired Teachers' Association will hold its bi-monthly luncheon meeting on Wednesday, June 17, at 2:15 p.m. at the Monterey Elks' Club, 150 Mar Vista Drive.

The following officers have been nominated for the coming term: July 1, June 30, 1972 and will be installed at this meeting:

President, Mrs. Andrew F. Anderson; first vice president, Aloys Nicholson; second vice president, Paul Cradler; recording secretary, Miss Nell Cravens; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Belle L. Riebel; treasurer and financial secretary, Mrs. Jemima E. Davies.

Mrs. Bernice Imlay of the Monterey County CRTA will speak on "Handicapped? Isn't Everybody?" Mrs. Imlay, a member of the governor's committee for the Employment of the Handicapped, recently has returned from the president's conference in Washington, D.C. on this subject.

All retired teachers and their guests are invited to attend the luncheon. Reservations may be made by June 13 with Mrs. Calvin Everett, 375-6943.

Cookies for the Fort Ord Hospital patients will be welcome.

Record 1,040 sea otters counted in aerial survey

A total of 1,040 sea otters, the greatest number yet observed in California, has been counted in an aerial survey by the Department of Fish and Game.

The count was made May 6-7 during what biologists Mel Odemar and Kenneth C. Wilson described as good weather for aerial census work because a high fog eliminated all glare.

The flights were made in the DFG's twin-engine Cessna Skymaster and covered the coast from Ano Nuevo to Cayucos.

The previous high count of 1,014 otters was made in June 1969. Once believed near extinction as the result of their widespread slaughter by fur traders during the 18th and 19th centuries, the California sea otter herd has slowly increased during the past 50 years. The sea otter is classified as an endangered species and is fully protected by law. It may not be taken or possessed for any reason.

Most of the otters in the recent count — 660 or 63.5 percent were observed within the Sea Otter Game Refuge between Point Pinos and Cambria. A total of 214 otters was spotted north of the refuge, mainly in the Monterey area, and 165 south of the refuge.

I SAW HER IN A RESTAURANT by Hi Yu, the Cat

She sat alone at her table,
Among the other tables, crowded
With chatting groups of diners,
Laughing groups of old and minors.
Tears brimmed, tried to fall,
Were forced back, as with face averted
She sought seclusion from them all.
Perhaps the tears were for one dead,
Perhaps aloneness was her dread.
Perhaps surprise on others' faces.
God be merciful to women, alone,
Who fight back tears in public places.

UNITY

To wed in June is hallowing of lives
Caught up in that ecstatic yearn to be ---
To seek fulfillment as a hope survives
The crush of circumstance triumphantly.

To be as one, to prove we can exist
And still perpetuate our love and trust;
To be a universe apart --- a tryst
To elevate our selves from out the dust.

To be a unity of mind, yet free
For individual expressiveness,
And supplement the common entity
Embodying our faith and happiness.

To this we pledge our honor, clasping hands,
To walk together that we two are one,
Safe in the knowledge that each understands
The sanctity of what is now begun.

If there be perils in the road ahead,
If there be any challenges to face,
Together we shall overcome, well-spiced
And armed in our appointed place.

CVPOA to press for water re-use study

The Carmel Valley Property Owners Association plans to press for an immediate, independent study of water resources and the possibilities of water reclamation in this area.

The CVPOA directors voted last week to contact the State Department of Water Resources and request that such a study be made before the California American Water Co. makes an irrevocable decision to build another dam on the upper Carmel River.

At the same time, the CVPOA will ask County Supervisor Willard T. Branson if the county can make a similar study. If neither the state nor the county is willing to investigate the feasibility of water reclamation, the CVPOA may pay for its own study if additional funds can be raised to fatten its limited treasury.

The directors also decided to meet with Sean Flavin, an attorney representing Cachagua property owners, to see how the CVPOA can help them fight any dam that would flood their land.

The decision to look into water reclamation as an alternative or supplement to a new dam came at the end of a lengthy meeting devoted almost entirely to two other conservation-related issues—the hillside zoning ordinance and major road work now underway in the Valley.

The directors agreed to continue the CVPOA's support for the basic hillside conservation (HC) ordinance, without any additional restrictive amendments, at the July 8 meeting of the County Planning Commission.

ADMIT POLITICAL REALITIES

Director George Lockwood, chairman of the CVPOA's zoning committee, urged the board to "face up to political realities" and settle for what seems to be possible—2½ acre minimum zoning on slopes above 30 per cent, with provision made for cluster developments.

The board took several actions regarding Carmel Valley roads. Among them:

1. Approved a recommendation to the County Road Department that a new cut on Laureles Grade and the Carmel Valley Road near Miramonte be landscaped with native plants as soon as possible. The road department will also be asked to replace oak trees that have died along the road going through the Village, and to consult with a CVPOA-appointed committee of Valley residents before deciding what to plant for ground cover.

WANT TO BE INFORMED

2. Directed that a letter be sent to Supervisor Willard Branson expressing the CVPOA's concern over the way in which decisions about roads in the Valley are made, and requesting the formation of a Carmel Valley advisory board

New law encourages

re-use of water

Legislation sponsored by Assemblyman Bob Wood to encourage the reclamation and re-use of the state's water resources has been signed into law by Governor Ronald Reagan.

The new law, AB 107 requires the State Water Resources Board to consider water re-use or reclamation upon applications to appropriate water.

In 1967 the legislature passed the Water Reclamation Act, which stated that the state's primary interest is to reclaim waste water in order to supplement existing water supplies. AB 107 will bring water re-use considerations into the water appropriation process.

Wood said he was pleased that the measure had received broad support from conservationists, the California Wildlife Federation and many large water users.

to the county road commissioner. Branson will also be asked to press for more advance publicity on road projects, including publication of legal notices in the Carmel Valley Outlook.

3. Voted to send another letter to Branson asking for a detailed cost breakdown on the Carmel Valley Road repair work east of Los Tulares, and for figures on an alternate plan that would not include straightening the road. When this information is received, board members decided, the CVPOA will hire a consulting engineer to go over the data and give an opinion on its validity.

On all these road projects, the board expressed grave concern about damage to the landscape and over-all road design. It was also felt that road repair costs have been excessive and cover more extensive straightening and filling than actually necessary to put the roads in safe driving condition.

In other action, the board elected George Sackman as its new secretary replacing Constance Smith, who has resigned for personal reasons.

Thank you, Carmel Valley voters for your support in the election for the office of District Attorney.

MAMMOTH earth cutting and removal job atop Laureles Grade goes full tilt ahead. This shows north end of cut.

Will scar on scenic Laureles Grade be covered?

Is the mammoth earth-removing project underway near the summit of scenic Laureles Grade going to leave a permanent scar?

This question came up at last week's meeting of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Edw. Marcucci, a member of the county planning commission, does not think so.

He read a letter from Bruce W. McClain, county road commissioner, which gave details on why the huge cut is being made and included this assurance, "we will review the end result of the completion of the contract to determine whether or not supplementary planting could aid in the erosion control of the area as well as enhance its scenic qualities."

Text of the memo from McClain to Marcucci:

This is in response to your inquiry regarding the considerations given to the cut at the Fiesta Land Company property which is now being extended.

As you know this is basically a slide removal project. We have been troubled with land slides at this location ever since the road was constructed on its present alignment. The basic problem has been the instability of the material plus the lack of adequate shoulder and/or benches to catch material loosened by wind and rain.

In order to replace those portions of the Carmel Valley Road between Miramonte and Laureles Grade which were washed out during the 1969 storms, it was necessary to find additional material. Since this slide area is close at hand it was determined to "kill two birds with one stone" by using the material from the slide as fill for the roadway.

Federal and State monies are participating in the restoration of the Carmel Valley Road. The purpose of these monies is to replace the facility which was damaged; therefore, erosion control work was limited to that necessary to contain the river.

We had, of course, taken into consideration the fact that Laureles Grade was a scenic highway when the decision to remove the material from the slide area was made. It is believed that the sooner the slide area is stabilized, the sooner that natural vegetation will have the opportunity to grow as it has on many other road cuts.

Since this is a scenic highway, we will review the end result at the completion of the contract to determine whether or not supplementary planting could aid in the erosion control of the area as well as enhance its scenic qualities. We believe that the final result of this work will provide a safer roadway less susceptible of blockage by slides and at the same time will not detract from the scenic qualities of this portion of the road which existed prior to the project.

SIDE VIEW from the south of earth removal (Laureles Grade curves in and out at left in photo), showing cutting and benching. County road department describes the job as serving two purposes: provide fill for repair of Carmel Valley Road, and prevent earth slides on Laureles Grade.

Final rites for Patrick Grimshaw

Funeral services were held yesterday morning for Patrick Leonard Grimshaw, Carmel Valley electrician and father of three small children, who was killed early Saturday morning when his car crashed into a tree west of the Village.

The California Highway Patrol said he was driving west about 1:30 a.m. when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel and crossed the road, striking a tree near the left shoulder of the highway.

Mr. Grimshaw was born Jan. 19, 1936, in Los Angeles, and had lived in Monterey County since 1939. He was a graduate of Carmel High School and a veteran of the Korean War.

He was president of the Carmel Ski Club and a member of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and had been associated with Collins Electrical Co.

He is survived by his widow, Janet, of Canada Drive, and their three children, Terri Anne, William Patrick and Daniel Thomas; his father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Grimshaw of Carmel; a half-brother, Fred Ford of Carmel; and his grandfather, Arnold Grimshaw of Carmel.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of funeral arrangements. Pallbearers at the service, conducted by the Rev. David Hill of All Saints' Episcopal Church, were Joey Rogers, Brad Conger, David Hildebrand, Dennis Deacon, Dale Vandervort and Russ Turpin.

GARDEN ASSN. TO MEET THURSDAY

The Carmel Valley Garden Association will hold its regular meeting on Thursday at the Tularcitos school, at 8 p.m. The speaker will be Bob Walls, whose subject will be succulents and ground covers.

This will be the last meeting of the Club until September. The public is invited.

FIRE AND EMERGENCY CALLS

The Carmel Valley Fire Department answered two fire calls on Tuesday, June 2. The first came at 3:06 p.m. when children apparently started a grass fire at Paso Hondo and Village Drive. The fire was quickly extinguished, and a power saw and tools found at the scene, which proved to be stolen, were turned over to Sheriff's deputies. That evening the department put out a chimney fire at the Wellman home at 14 Flight Road, which caused about $50 damage. Eighteen men and four pieces of equipment responded to the call.

On Wednesday, the Red Cross ambulance operated by the department transported John Deas of Barbara Way to Community Hospital as a medical emergency at 8:48 p.m.

Saturday night the ambulance and rescue squad reported to the scene of an automobile accident at Carmel Valley Road near Phelps Way, at which Patrick Grimshaw was killed.

TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

I happened to read my 11 year old daughters' homework last night. She is an ordinary little girl with average I.Q., but obviously with firm opinions on the education she wants.

"How to improve Tularcitos."

"We could get some teachers who are real strict. The kids should be made to do their work, if they do not do their work in class they should come after school and do it more than once, after that they should write one hundred times: I will do my work in class, or, I will not talk in class, or something like that. The kids should not talk back to the teachers or any grown ups. Nobody should throw papers on the play ground, if they do they should be made to pick up papers and trash all around school, then write one hundred times: I will not throw papers on the ground."

How many hundreds of other children want to get back to good "old fashioned" schooling?

Yours sincerely,
BRENDA WALLACE
Carmel Valley

Dear Editor:

I am finishing my term as publicity chairman for the Carmel Woman's Club and wish to thank you for your cooperation during the past year.

My I bespeak for my successor, Mrs. J.R. Lynas, your continued interest and help?

Sincerely,
MRS. CHARLES KASCH
The Carmel Woman's Club

Dear Editor:

I want to personally thank you for the outstanding new coverage you have given Carmel River School during this past school year.

Smitty's photography has been superb, and everyone concerned has been delighted with everything your staff has done.

Sincerely,
EDWIN L. McCURRY, Principal
Carmel River School

Sir:

Mrs. Moore and I, by this means, wish to express our thanks to all the agencies and individuals in Monterey County and, particularly, the Carmel Valley, who helped search for the plane in which our son, Juan and his friend, Gary S. Bowman, crashed to their deaths on Tuesday afternoon, May 26, 1970.

Darkness made rescue efforts very difficult in the hours following the realization that the aircraft may have fallen in rugged, mountainous terrain. Nevertheless, as soon as an alert sounded, a ground search began and continued without interruption until the plane was discovered from the air on the southwestern slope of Mt. Toro the following day.

To "Chip" Collins and the volunteers of the Carmel Valley Fire Department, to California Highway Patrol Captain Francis Simmons and his officers, to Sheriff Davenport and his Deputies, the FAA, Monterey and Salinas Airport officials, the U. S. Navy, Coroner Cris Hill and his staff, private flying services and the hundreds of individuals who aided in rescue efforts our heartfelt appreciation.

The sorrow flowing from the death of these two fine young men is rendered less painful by our realization that in such an emergency as this was the concerned community sprang into action to offer assistance.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Moore
Salinas

The Editor:

Along the western side of Hatton Fields lies a four acre tract of land as yet undeveloped. This tract was zoned in 1966 to conform to the pattern of lot size and zoning in Hatton Fields, namely one house on 20,000 sq. ft. of land.

The owner of the four acres has requested re-zoning to a minimum lot size of 10,000 sq. ft. On May 27 the County Planning Commission expressed approval of this request. Before the re-zoning becomes effective it must be approved by the County Board of Supervisors, after a public hearing is held.

The Directors of the Carmel Citizens Committee wishes to go on record as opposing the proposed re-zoning for the following reasons:

1. Hatton Fields as presently constituted, is made up of large lots. 20,000 sq. ft. minimum prevails and several lots are more than one acre. To grant this 10,000 sq. ft. request will have the effect of down grading the area.

2. If this re-zoning is approved a precedent will be established which will make the splitting of other Hatton Fields lots, much easier. The long term effect will be gradual elimination of a rural, forested type of suburb.

3. No new factors have entered the picture since 1966 when the four acre tract was zoned to 20,000 sq. ft. The zoning was right in 1966 and is right in 1970.

4. If this tract is granted 10,000 sq. ft. zoning, it will be used to influence a request for small lots when the Flanders Estate is eventually zoned by the City of Carmel. This 15 acre wooded tract, a part of the Hatton Field mesa, was proposed for four houses per acre in 1968. The proposal was denied by the Carmel city Planning Commission as too destructive in an area of great natural beauty. If the four acre tract on the opposite side of the mesa is re-zoned to four houses per acre it will make more difficult the protection of the Flanders Estate, when the subdividers launch their next offensive.

For these reasons, our Board of Directors, earnestly hopes the County Board of Supervisors will not grant this request for re-zoning.
